

Marsabit Lodge is situated within Marsabit National Park, which is one of the best kept wildlife secrets sanctuaries in the world. It was home to the legendary king of Elephants, Ahmed, who died a natural death and whose remains is a major attraction at the National Museum of Kenya in Nairobi.

The park's comparative inaccessibility ensured that it remained unchanged for centuries, unaffected by ravages of mankind.

www.crocodileracers.com

Marsabit is accessible by 4 wheel drive vehicles off tarmac road, stretching 260km from Isiolo town just North of Mt. Kenya. The drive to Marsabit also passes through Samburu game reserve, crosses the Ewaso Nyiro River and proceeds to a beautiful wild country, undulating plains with occasional volcanic outcrops.

Beyond Samburu country on drives through Rendille country before climbing the beautiful forested Marsabit Mountains where the lodge is located.

Marsabit National park cover 360sq.km. It supports a wild range of wildlife. Oversize tusk carrying elephants mingle with the herds of buffalo and parade to water in the late afternoon at the crater which forms part of the beautiful surroundings of the lodge.

There are also reticulated Giraffe, Baboons, Bushbucks, Greater Kudu, Monkeys, Oryx, Gazelles, Antelopes, Zebra, Warthog among others. Such Vast numbers attract predators a plenty mainly lions, hyenas, cheetahs and leopards. At least fifty two species of Eagles, hawk and falcon nest in the sheer 200-215m(650-700feet) high cliffs amid stands of juniper and podocarpus. Altogether there are more than 350 recorded bird species. The rare Lammergeier Eagles nest on the sheer cliffs of Gof Bongole, the largest Crater -which has a ten kilometer (six miles) rim.

The lodge, with 24 fully refurbished guestrooms all with private bathrooms and back doors giving access to the balcony, enjoys uninterrupted views, lies within Marsabit Mountains Range, which rises from the expansive Chalbi desert.

Sorkorte Diko, a cliff lined bowl forming a natural amphitheatre provides an excellent view into this wildlife paradise. The lodge is conveniently situated just 8km from Marsabit Airstrip. Paradise Restaurant overlooking Sokorte Diko offers international and local cuisine. An open fog fireplace is a feature of Sokorte bar and lounge where guests can enjoy friendly hospitality.

Marsabit is a staging post for the journey up to the northern tourist circuit.; this is also the beginning of adventure which intrepid travellers make when cross the Chalbi desert to reach Lake Turkana.

Walking safaris outside Marsabit National Park accompanied by armed rangers and experienced guides can be arranged.